The Bruce Wine Memorial Fund and ICP+P present:

The play, Dinner with Friends, by Donald Margulies, is a cautionary tale about the vagaries of compatibility and commitment in long-term relationships—platonic, professional, romantic, and familial. The play will be presented as a parable about complex questions in clinical practice that have neither easy nor proscribed answers:

“What unconscious personal biases and values inform therapist ethical decision making?”

“Am I a ‘good enough’ therapist—for this patient, at this time?”

“Are my co-therapist and I an effective therapeutic team?”

“Is being a psychotherapist (still) a vocational choice I want to commit to?”

This interactive program will give participants an opportunity to explore these and related questions, as they might be relevant to their clinical practice.

At the conclusion of this program, participants will be able to:

1. Recognize ethical issues related to effective working relationships—between therapist and client, colleague-to-colleague, and self to the profession.
2. Identify personal values and biases that inform ethical decision making in clinical practice.
3. Apply a collaborative decision making process to the resolution of ethical dilemmas.

This conference is appropriate for clinicians at all levels of experience.

About our Presenters:

The Red Well Theater Group of Washington, D.C. contributes to the professional development of psychotherapists through continuing education presentations that combine a dramatic reading of a stage play with clinically informed commentary and a moderated audience discussion. The mission is to illuminate and explore themes related to ethical clinical practice and therapist wellbeing, in and beyond the consulting room. Members of the Red Well Theater Group share a love of theater and a commitment to dynamic therapy training and practice, approaching each discipline as a healing art.

Robert Schulte, MSW is a clinical social worker and psychotherapist in practice in Old Town Alexandria, VA. He is a graduate of the ICP+P Psychotherapy Training Program. Bob is also a faculty member of the Washington School of Psychiatry National Group Psychotherapy Institute.

What is the Bruce Wine Memorial Conference?

Bruce Wine was a founding member of ICP+P. The Bruce Wine Memorial Fund was created in 2008 with a mission to sponsor conferences that bring creative and innovative theoretical and clinical perspectives to ICP+P and to the larger mental health community. The Fund’s central mission is focused on fulfilling Bruce’s wish to bring cutting edge thought to theory building and clinical practice.
